

Describe Jesus Based on Your Experience

I drew this one morning out of my bag of "Things To Do With Jesus," and as I sat curled up in my armchair eating my breakfast I jotted down my description. You ought to try it sometime. It is a good way to measure where your relationship is coming from and if you're learning anything new as you get to know Jesus more intimately. So, grab a pen and paper and try it now, before you read my list. :)

- He loves me.
- When he throws back his head and laughs I love it. He's almost always laughing.
- He has a huge sense of humor. Ones who haven't experienced it might be scandalized, but he's so funny! He keeps me laughing.
- His arms are so strong and powerful, when I need to be held he holds me tight and close, he's so comforting.
- His scarred hands are tender, yet strong: to dance, to hold, to express himself.
- He exudes strength, yet he can be so gentle.
- "It's those brown eyes that kill you." When he looks at me I melt.
- He takes my desires, dreams, and wishes, and makes them real, living them with me.
- He's everything I need before I ask.
- He's beautiful, radiant, and vivaciously alive.
- He's attentive.
- He treats me like a lady.
- He makes me feel special.
- He holds me when I hurt.
- He cries with me.
- He loves time alone with me.
- He loves sharing hearts, dreams, and chit-chat.
- He communicates so much without words.
- He's better than chocolate.
- He shields and protects me.

- He serves, provides, is vulnerable, and trusts me.
- He longs to be face to face even more than I do.
- He wants me to drop my masks and fears and be real with him.
- He loves the beach.
- He doesn't talk much but his grin and laugh and eyes and arms speak volumes.
- He takes me places I've never been.
- He's playful and full of fun. He has a silly side.
- His compassion for people is enormous, beyond comprehension, and when he shares his heart with me I cry with him.
- His position of authority is such that he can go anywhere anytime—no doors are closed.
- He's sensitive to my needs and desires.
- He exudes strength, confidence, and tenderness.
- What I think matters a lot to him.
- He loves to show me new sights and experiences just to see my delight.
- He's extremely proud of and fascinated by creation.
- He has a thing about hair.
- He cares so much about people's hearts, much more than rules.
- He meets me where I am emotionally but also pushes me to go further than my comfort zone. He won't let me play it safe.
- He's very sensitive to my feelings, careful not to embarrass me or point out something that would embarrass me.
- He's very romantic, and loves cards, flowers, and candles.
- He is very touch-oriented.
- He loves to dance.
- He's sweeter than honey and more delicious than wine.
- He is altogether lovely.
